What you need to know: The Rules and Regulations

Set up must be completed between 8am -2pm on Saturday, October 9, 2010

During the competition, tables may be set for a minimum of 6 and maximum of 10 settings, however each table must seat 10 for dinner so designers must provide a quantity of 10 of all items that will remain at their table during dinner.

Designers will also supply all other items to create their spectacular, over-the-top tables including runners, placemats, chargers, centerpieces, battery operated candles (no real flame allowed), slipcovers, party favors, name cards, etc.

Due to health regulations, all designer supplied plates, flatware, glassware must be removed prior to the dinner service. Everything else stays on the table for dinner. We will close the doors from 7:30-8pm so designers can remove their items and servers can reset the tables for 10 people. You must provide a storage tub (71 qt. size best) labeled with your name so your removed goods can be stacked in the storage area during the event.

Each designer must stay within the 12 x 12 footprint allocated. Due to space restrictions, no props beyond the table and chairs will be allowed. If a rug or floor covering of any kind is used, it may not exceed this space and must lie absolutely flat on the floor. Edges may need to be taped as well.

No table may be elevated above the floor. No design elements can be attached to walls or ceilings. No live animals can be part of the table design.

Only perimeter tables will have access to wall outlets. All interior tables must use battery operated lighting if additional lighting is desired. (Remember, you will have a spotlight over your table.) Perimeter tables will be assigned on a first come, first available registration basis.

Designers should be cognizant of site lines when creating centerpieces. Guests will be sitting at these tables during dinner and entertainment and need to be able to see the stage area. Oversize centerpieces will be restricted to perimeter tables on a first come, first available registration basis.

Design Awards will be given for the following categories:

Most Sophisticated, Best Use of Color, Most Whimsical, Best Expression of a Theme, Most Glamorous, Best Use of Natural Materials, People's Choice

Guests will be asked to select one table for each category during the voting period without duplicating votes except in the People's Choice category. By making designers aware of award categories in advance, the designer may decide whether or not to create a design that will fit into a specific category. People's Choice does not need to represent any of the above categories to be eligible.

No table may be broken down until dinner event is concluded and all guests have left the ballroom for the IFDA Urban Lounge area. Or, if you choose to break down the following day, you may return to the hotel during the hours of ____ to pick up all items. (We are still waiting to hear from the hotel on tear down.)

Winners of the competition must be willing to have their names and entries published.

Neither IFDA nor the hotel is responsible for lost, stolen or damaged items. IFDA reserves the right to limit the number of tables displayed. IFDA also reserves the right to determine the appropriateness of all entries for public viewing.
